What do you do when your eyes are getting worse, you are infected with Model Railway virus and you can not help it; you simply want to emulate Mr. Kozak and team.

Two possibilities offer themselves as: A good optician or a gauge changes - or both.

But seriously. At some point I saw two models of a tank wagon in a business on the sales counter. One in 1:87, the other in track I, gauge 1:32. What a difference, both in terms of detail, and the effect on the move, which I could admire a little later on the modules of Münsterland trace I.
